

Church of the Incarnation

Flipped Sunday School

Fall 2020

For the fall Sunday School term, we will be using a flipped classroom model. With this model, you will access the weekly learning material outside of the classroom and then when we come together for Sunday School we will use our time for discussing, questioning, and engaging the material together.

The way you will receive the material will be in the form of a 25 min podcast which will be released each week on Monday. You will have all week to listen to it, think about it, and come up with questions and insights that we will discuss when we come together on Sunday after House Church. The podcast is called Lit: a podcast dedicated to life, liturgy, and the pursuit of holiness, and it is being hosted by two Episcopal priests, Brin Bon (Church of the Incarnation, South Austin) and Justin Yawn (St. Luke's on the Lake, Lake Travis)

You will need the following:

- A Book of Common Prayer (1979)
- A device to use for listening to the podcast
- A notebook for writing your thoughts, questions, and insights

Here are the (tentative) dates and topics for the fall term

You are what you love: How praying shapes discipleship in the liturgical tradition

- September 13 - What is the definition of liturgy? What does it have to do with faith and how we live our lives?
- September 27 - Why do we pray? Why do we use a book to pray?
- October 4 - What is the Book of Common Prayer? Who uses it and what do they use it for? How does this book help me live a life of discipleship?

Hakuna Matata: The (liturgical) circle of life

- October 11 - It's a party! The lectionary and Holy Days
- October 18 - How would Jesus pray? The Psalter
